May 12, 1877. SAWYER, WALLACE & Co., under date of SAWYER, WALLACE & Co., under date of November I, reports: The heavier and softer Clarksville and western district leaf being nigh well exhausted, shippers have made some inroads on our Ohio and Green river tobacco usually reserved for home trade, and although better cured and sweeter than the former, they have demanded and obtained a large reduction from the price at which it was held. And this leads us to notice a failing off in the demand for this once favorite article, which it will be well for buyers to heed. The demand for tobacco has its fashions as much as for dress, and we must conform to the taste for the moment if Having secured the Agency for Heck Coal, we can furnish a very superior article of Kentucky Coal, clear of slate, from and stone. Try it. We guarantee it as repre-sented. must conform to the taste for the moment if we would prosper. Now for some years the fashion has been gradually favoring the extremes of body and color, viz.; dark gummy Clarksville or western district, and light bright Mason county; and the intermediate by the corts, grown on both sides of the Ohio, from Sorts, grown on both sides of the Ohio, from Louisville down to the Camberland river, and including all Indiana, Illinois and Misand incliding all Indians, lithios and Mis-souri, are comparatively neglected, except the very small proportion resembling the two favorite sorts mentioned above. We have no doubt this fashion will change back again in time—indeed, some cutters and plug manufacturers say that aiready some of their customers demand a stronger chew than can be made out of the light bodied. Mason, but until this change occurs in a de Mason, but until this change occurs in a de-cided manner, these medium growths must be bought much below the others, unless stemmers find them equally acceptable abroad—they are not so here. really been without any demand for the kind we speak of.

Prices have been very irregular throughout the month, and the market somewhat demoralized by the failure of a factor with 2,500 hhds, the offering of 1,200 hhds by New Orleans samples, and the continued pressure to sell by western shippers. The average decline on shipping leaf we think it safe to call one cent per b. Some few desirable hhds may have done better, but in many cases sacrifices have been made, and we lit appearing from affidavit filed in this call one cent per B. Some few desirable hids may have done better, but in many cases sacrifices have been made, and we hear of jobbers realizing profits of $40, $50, and on one hid $100, in a few days after purchase. Common lugs we do not alter, but they are scarcely saleable. Fair light planters' lugs can be bought at 3½ cents, which our bones say is too low, but our brain, looking at the immense stock, is not sure of. Bright sweet home stock has not varied, but is very scarce. The outside figures of our light column apply exclusively column. A few good new wrappers, well assorted, would be welcomed by our manufacturers. It is impossible to give reliable prices; we have of late years got 15@17 cents for choice early receipts, but no doubt they will open lower this year, and the market might be easily overstocked. Resides these, we want no new tobacco until thoroughly cured. All our buyers have a horror of green color and too soft order.
